The Client requests data from the rmiregistry auction (Front End) . Then the Front End requests data either from replica interface or auction (Primary replica). The primary replica responds to the Front end request either through Replica interface or auction (Primary replica). The front end responds to the Clients request through aution (Front End). When the primary replica gets updates all the other replicas get updated too.